Grammar

Present simple Tense

زمن المضارع البسيط

Form التكوين

❖ We use the base form of the verb and add -s for the third-person singular.

+	I, you, we, they she, he, it		work. works.
-	I, you, we, they she, he, it	(full form) do not does not	work.
	I, you, we, they she, he, it	(short form) don't doesn't
? +	Do Does	I, you, we, they she, he, it	work?
? -	(full form) Do Does	I, you, we, they she, he, it	not

	I, you, we, they
(short form)	she, he, it
Don't
Doesn't

Present simple: spelling.

For most verbs we add -s to the base form to make the she, he, it (third-person singular) form:

come → comes	order → orders	travel → travels
eat → eats	record → records	walk → walks
move → moves

❖ For other verbs, the spelling changes are:

	verb	she, he, it
When the verb ends in -ch, -ss, -sh, -x or -zz, we add -es.	watch	watches
	miss	misses
	wash	washes
	mix	mixes
	buzz	buzzes
When the verb ends in a consonant + -y we change y to i and add -es.	hurry	hurries
	study	studies
	reply	replies
But when the verb ends in a vowel + -y we just add -s.	pay	pays
	enjoy	enjoys
	have	has

Have, go, do, and be are irregular.

goes

do

does

be

is

- When the verb ends in -s or -z we double the -s or -z and add -es, e.g. quiz, quizzes. These verbs are not common.

• Present simple: uses

❖ General truths and facts

- ❖ We use the present simple to talk about general facts that are always true and permanent about the world:

- 1-Ten times ten makes one hundred. ($10 \times 10 = 100$)
- 2-There is always a holiday on the last Monday in August in the UK.
- 3-Time passes very quickly when you get older.

- ❖ We use the present simple to talk about general facts that we think are true and permanent at the present time:

- 1-I really love my job.
- 2-Mrs. Clare doesn't teach me but she teaches my sister.
- 3-Do you live in Glasgow? My cousin lives there too.
- 4-Spiders don't frighten me.
- 5-Martha does what she wants. No one tells her what to do.

❖ Regular and habitual events

- ❖ We use the present simple to talk about regular or habitual events. We often use always, often, usually, sometimes, never, and other frequency adverbs for regular and habitual events:

- 1-How do you get to work? Do you get the bus?
- 2-I read every night before I go to sleep.
- 3-We always have a holiday in the summer. We never work in August.
- 4-We usually fly to France when we go. Lorea doesn't like the ferry. It makes her feel sick.

❖ Instructions and directions

We use the present simple when we are giving instructions or directions. We often use ordering words, such as and, first, and then with this use of the present simple:

❖ [Giving directions]

- ❖ You take the train into the city centre and then you take a number five bus. You don't get off at the museum. You get off at the stop after the museum.

❖ [Giving instructions before a test]

So what you do is ... you read the questions first and then you write down your answers in the box. You don't write on the question paper.

❖ [Stories and commentaries]

- ❖ We often use the present simple to describe a series of actions – one action after another. We see this, especially in stories, summaries of stories or reviews:

❖ [Talking about the series of events in a novel]

1-Alex doesn't ring back at midnight ... she waits till the morning to ring, and they get annoyed with Liz when she goes on ... they know she's got plenty of money by their standards ...

- ❖ The present simple is often used by sports commentators to give commentaries or report actions as they are happening:
- ❖ Immediate reactions
- ❖ We use the present simple, often with verbs of senses and perception, to talk about feelings and reactions at the moment of speaking:

1-Do you think that meat is ok to eat? It doesn't smell very good.

2-Where does it hurt?

❖ [Talking about the colour of a dress]

1-I don't like the colour. I think I look terrible.

2-It seems a bit quiet in here. Where is everyone?

3-Don't you believe me? It's true, honestly.

- ❖ I promise, I swear, I agree (speech act verbs)
- ❖ We use the present simple with speech act verbs (verbs which perform the act that they describe):

1-I will pay you back, I promise when I get paid.

2-I agree with everything you say.

❖ [We also use the present simple in a similar way in formal statements and business or legal communications:]

1-I attach the original signed copies for your records.

- ❖ 2-On behalf of the Society, and particularly those involved in medical work, I write to thank you for your kind gift of £20,000 ... (more formal than I'm writing to thank you ...)

❖ Timetables and plans

- ❖ We use the present simple to talk about events that are part of a future plan or timetable:

1-The lesson starts at 9.30 tomorrow instead of 10.30.

2-Lunch is at 12.30. Don't be late.

3-What time do you land? (Talking about a flight at some time in the future)

4-They don't start back to school until next Monday.

❖ Future: present simple is used to talk about the future (I work tomorrow)

❖ Present simple after when, before, etc.

- ❖ We use the present simple for future reference in subordinate clauses after words like when, before, as soon as, if, and whether:

1-I'll call you when I get there.

Not: I'll call you when I'll get there.

2-Don't forget to ring before you go.

Not: Don't forget to ring before you'll go.

3-They hope to move into the new house as soon as they get back from Australia next month.

Not: ... as soon as they'll get back from Australia next month.

❖ Conditionals

1-If1- If we heat iron, it expands. (Zero case)

2-If you Practise well, you will win the match. (1st.case)

❖ Newspaper headlines

- ❖ We often see the present simple in news headlines to report past events. It emphasizes the drama or immediacy of an event:

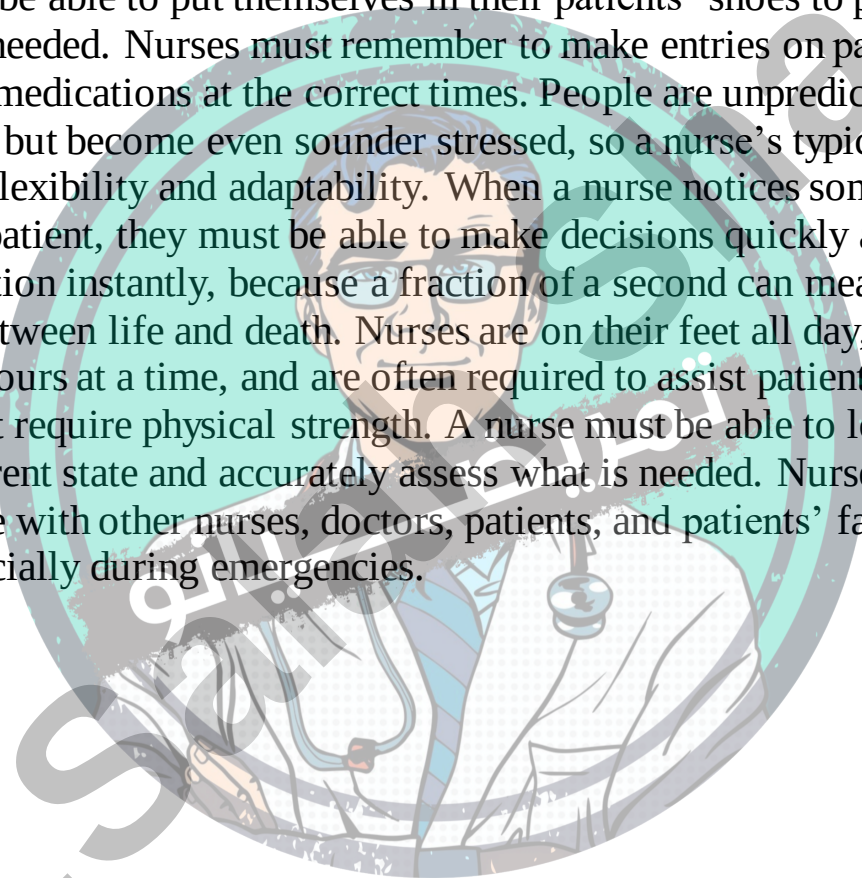

1-Man rescues child from lake.

The qualities of good nurses

Nursing is a field that demands much from those who pursue it. Long hours and the strain of working with ill and stressed people on a daily basis make it challenging. You should demonstrate these qualities during your performance.

Nurses deal with the sick and injured and their families on a daily basis and must be able to show that they truly care about the situation.

Nurses must be able to put themselves in their patients' shoes to provide the quality care needed. Nurses must remember to make entries on patients' charts and to bring medications at the correct times. People are unpredictable at the best of times but become even sounder stressed, so a nurse's typical workday will require flexibility and adaptability. When a nurse notices something is not right with a patient, they must be able to make decisions quickly and put their plans into action instantly, because a fraction of a second can mean the difference between life and death. Nurses are on their feet all day, sometimes 12 or more hours at a time, and are often required to assist patients with activities that require physical strength. A nurse must be able to look at a patient's current state and accurately assess what is needed. Nurses must communicate with other nurses, doctors, patients, and patients' families clearly, especially during emergencies.

Grammar

Modals

Have to

Have to is NOT an auxiliary verb. We need do/does/did to make negatives and questions in the present and past.

- Have you to get up early tomorrow? ✗
- Do you have to get up early tomorrow? ✓
- Did you have to change the sound card?
- We don't have to stay until the end.

We can use have to in all the verb forms (present, past, and perfect tenses, gerund, to infinitive, etc.)

- I don't like having to get up early.
- She's had to work at weekends since she started working.
- I had to cancel the meeting.

It is used to describe an obligation, a rule, or something necessary.

- You have to drive on the left in England.
- I'll have to get up early tomorrow. The exam is at 8.

Have got to

In spoken informal English, you can often use 've got to instead of have to.

- I can't stay; I've got to go to the supermarket.

Must

Must is a modal verb, and it has a present form, which can be used to talk about the present or future. The negative form is must not or mustn't, and the question is must I, must you, etc.

- I must go to the doctor.
- I must get up early tomorrow.
- You mustn't call me before 8.

It is used to describe something that the speaker thinks is necessary to do.

- You must eat less candy.
- I must try to do more exercise.

We can also use must to express strong advice.

- You must see the new film; it's amazing!

Must/mustn't, have to/don't have to :

Must or Have to?

Must only has a present form, so we need to use have to for all other verb forms (past, future, perfect forms, infinitive, etc.).

- You will have to come with me.
- We had to drive very fast.

We normally use have to for questions. Questions with must are not common.

- Do we have to sit here?

Regarding the meaning, sometimes there is little difference between have to and must.

- I must go to the hospital.
- I have to go to the hospital.

But we normally use have to when there's an external obligation and must when the obligation comes from the opinion of the speaker.

- We have to get up early tomorrow. The meeting is at nine. (external obligation)
- We must get up early tomorrow if we want to finish painting. (it's the speaker's opinion)
- You have to wear a suit at the meeting. (it's a rule in the company)
- You must buy a new suit for the meeting. (it's my opinion)

Mustn't or Don't have to?

Don't have to and mustn't have opposite meanings. We use don't have to when we don't need to do something, when there's no obligation, and we use mustn't talk about prohibition, when there is an obligation not to do something.

- You mustn't wait here. (=it's not allowed)
- You don't have to wait here. (=you can do it, but it's not necessary)

If you don't have to do something, it means that you can do it if you want, but you don't need to do it.

Can't/be not allowed to = mustn't

We can use can't or be not allowed to instead of mustn't.

- You mustn't smoke in this area. = You are not allowed to/can't smoke in this area.

- Children mustn't eat chewing gum. = Children can't/are not allowed to eat chewing gum.

Should, shouldn't

Should is used to give advice or an opinion about what we think is right or wrong.

- You should go to a therapist.
- I think schools shouldn't offer soft drinks to their students.

Should is not as strong as must or have to.

- You should be patient with me. (=advice)
- You must be patient with me. (=strong advice)

Ought to/ought not to = should/shouldn't (Ought to) has the same meaning as should, although it is more formal and not as common.

- You ought to go to a therapist.
- You ought not to be so strict with your daughter.

Paragraph Writing

Sport is useful and important

Countries and governments give sport due care. اهتمام بالغ Sport plays a vital role in everyone's life. It helps us build up our bodies. It also urges us تحثنا to love competition. Sport creates some sort of good relationships علاقات طيبة between countries. Sport teaches athletes cooperation, self-reliance, self-defense, and good values قيم طيبة. So everyone, either young or old, should practise a certain sport. Athletes الرياضيين can enjoy all sports in youth centres مراكز الشباب that are everywhere in Egypt. Parents should advise their children to do Karate, Judo, and so on. They can encourage them to play tennis, football, volleyball, squash, basketball, and other games. They may be international professionals محترفين دوليين in the future.

- جملة الصفة: هي جملة تبدأ عادة بضمير وصل و تستخدم في تحديد اسم سابق لها.

- I told you about the woman who lives next door.
- Do you know the girl, who is talking to Tom?
- ضمير الوصل: ضمير يربط بين جملتين بينهما اسم مشترك لعدم تكراره
- I bought a new car that is very fast.
- I'm looking for a secretary who / that can use a computer well.
- لاحظ أننا لا نكرر الضمير عندما نستخدم ضمير الوصل
- The woman who (she) lives across the road is a doctor.
- My uncle, who (he) was born in Hong Kong, lived most of his life overseas.

Who – whom – which – that – whose – where – when ❖ نستخدم لربط الجمل بعضها وتحل محل الاسم أو الضمير المكرر في الجملة الثانية .

Omission of relative pronouns حذف ضمائر الوصل

- يتم حذف كل من (who - which - whom) عندما يحلوا محل مفعول (إذا جاء بعدهم فاعل)

- This is the woman who I helped.

- This is the woman I helped.

- يمكن حذف كل من (who - which) في الحالات التالية:

- إذا جاء بعدهما زمن مستمر و في هذه الحالة يتم حذف الضمير و (be) ويبقى (v.ing)

- The boy who is wearing a red shirt is my son. = - The boy wearing a red shirt is my son.

Do you see the cat which is lying on the roof? - Do you see the cat lying on the roof?

- إذا جاء بعدهم (verb to be) كفعل أساسي وهنا يتم حذف الضمير و (verb to be)

-The woman who is in this shop, lent me this pen. -The woman in this shop lent me this pen.

- The girl who is at the supermarket wants to buy some sweets.

- The girl at the supermarket wants to buy some sweets.

- يمكن حذف ضمير الوصل إذا كان بعده (صفة + (...be))

-The girl who was lazy didn't go to school yesterday. -The lazy girl didn't go to school yesterday.

- نحذف ضمير الوصل المتبوع بفعل مبني للمعلوم و نضع الفعل في صورة (V+ing)

I told you about the woman who lives next door. - I told you about the woman living next door.

- نحذف ضمير الوصل إذا جاء بعده فعل مبني للمجهول وهنا نحذف أيضا (verb to be) ويبقى التصريف الثالث للفعل.

-The girl who was arrested yesterday stole clothes from shops.

-The girl arrested yesterday stole clothes from shops.

- نستخدم (to + inf.) بدلا من عبارة الوصل إذا كان ضمير الوصل في الجملة يحل محل

الفاعل مع كلمات مثل

The first/second/last.....

- I was the first person who left the ship. = - I was the first person to leave the ship.

- لا يمكن استخدام that بدلا من which إلا إذا وضعنا حرف الجر بعد الفعل

- The train arrived late. I came by it.
- The house by which I came arrived late.
- The train that I came by arrived late.

لاحظ أن هناك نوعان من جملة الصفة

❖ Defining relative clause

جملة صفة محددة للاسم

- هذا النوع يعطي معلومة أساسية عن الشيء أو الشخص أو المكان الذي نتحدث عنه ونستخدم في هذا النوع who / which / whom ولا نستخدم comma قبل أو بعد عبارة الوصل. ويمكن استخدام that بدلا من ضمائر الوصل.

- She is the woman who / that wrote two books.
- The woman who stole the ring was soon arrested. (Who stole the ring is essential information)
- The man who told me this refused to give his name.
- The noise that he made woke everybody up.

❖ 2- Non-defining relative clause

جملة صفة غير محددة للاسم

- في هذا النوع لا تقدم جملة الصفة معلومة هامة عن الشيء أو الشخص أو المكان الذي نتحدث عنه ولا بد من استخدام comma قبل وبعد عبارة الوصل ولا تستخدم that في هذا النوع

- Sara's mother, who works for the national bank, always comes home late.
- My gardener, who is very pessimistic, says that there will be no apples this year.

A story you read

My favourite story is "Robinson Crusoe". It's an adventure story by Daniel Defoe. It's about a sailor who went on a voyage from England to Africa to sell his goods. He faced some problems in the sea. Once, a big storm damaged his ship. The ship sank, but he survived. He found himself on an island where he lived for some years. He built a house for himself, planted different crops, and kept animals. After some years, the island became a beautiful place. People came and lived there. Crusoe decided to return to England again, but he returned to the island in the end. It was a great experience for him. I really enjoyed reading it.

Grammar

The present continuous Tense

The present continuous of any verb is composed of two parts - the present tense of the verb to be + the present participle of the main verb.

(The form of the present participle is: base+ing, e.g. talking, playing, moving, and smiling)

Affirmative

Subject	+ to be	+ base + ing
She	is	talking.

Negative

Subject	+ to be + not	+ base + ing
She	is not (isn't)	talking

Interrogative

to be	+ subject	+ base + ing
Is	she	talking?

Examples: TO GO, present continuous

Affirmative	Negative	Interrogative
I am going	I am not going	Am I going?
You are going	You aren't going.	Are you going?
He, she, it is going.	He, she, it isn't going.	Is he, she, it going?
We are going	We aren't going	Are we going?
You are going	You aren't going	Are you going?
They are going	They aren't going	Are they going?

Note: alternative negative contractions: I'm not going, you're not going, he's not going, etc.

Functions of the present continuous

As with all tenses in English, the speaker's attitude is as important as the time of the action or event. When someone uses the present continuous, they are thinking about

The present continuous is used:

- 1-To describe an action that is going on at this moment:
- You are using the Internet.
- You are studying English grammar.
- 2-To describe an action that is going on during this period of time.
- Are you still working for the same company? More and more people are becoming vegetarian.
- 3-To describe an action or event in the future, which has already been planned or prepared.
- We're going on holiday tomorrow? I'm meeting my boyfriend tonight. Are they visiting you next winter?
- 4-To describe a temporary event or situation.
- : He usually plays the drums, but he's playing bass guitar tonight. The weather forecast was good, but it's raining at the moment.
- 5-With "always, forever, constantly", to describe and emphasize a continuing series of repeated actions.
- Harry and Sally are always arguing! You're constantly complaining about your mother-in-law!

Be careful: Some verbs are not usually used in the continuous form.

Verbs that are not usually used in the continuous form

The verbs in the list below are normally used in the simple form because they refer to states, rather than actions.

1-Senses / perception

❖ to feel* to hear to see* to smell* to taste

2-Opinion

- To assume/ to believe/ to consider/ to doubt/ to feel (= to think)/ to find / to suppose/ to think.

3-Mental states

- to forget/ to imagine/ to know/ to mean/ to notice/ to recognize/

4-Emotions / desires

- to envy/ to fear/ to dislike/ to hate/ to hope to like/ to love/ to mind/ to prefer/ to regret/ to want/ to wish

5-Others

- to look (=resemble)/ to seem/ to be (in most cases)/ to have (when it means "to possess")

6-Exceptions

Perception verbs (see, hear, feel, taste, and smell) are often used with can: I can see... These verbs may be used in the continuous form but with a different meaning.

- This coat feels nice and warm. (your perception of the coat's qualities)
- John's feeling much better now. (his health is improving)
- She has three dogs and a cat. (possession)
- She's having supper. (She's eating)

Paragraph

Dr. Magdy Yacoub King of Hearts

Dr. Magdy Yacoub, born on the 16th of November in 1935, is considered one of the most famous Egyptians, one of the pioneers of heart transplantation at the global level, and one of the most prominent surgeons in Britain, where he was awarded the title of King of Hearts. Dr. Yacoub graduated from the Faculty of Medicine, Cairo University in 1957. In 1964, Dr. Yacoub began his career life in the best hospitals in Britain. In 1974, Dr. Yacoub became the first person to conduct open heart surgery in Nigeria with the help of a team of prominent surgeons.

Pioneer of Heart Transplant

In 1980 Dr. Yacoub headed the Heart Transplant Program at Harefield Hospital in London where he performed nearly two thousand heart transplants that made Harefield Hospital the main transplant center in the UK. Dr. Yacoub has developed new techniques in the field of heart surgery for patients with heart problems at birth. Dr. Yacoub led a team of specialists who succeeded in making new parts of the heart from human cells. Since 2001, Dr. Yacoub has devoted most of his time to the "Chain of Hope" charity he founded in 1995 that cares for children suffering from heart diseases in conflict areas in the developing countries. He established a heart operations center in Aswan in 2009.

The Unit in points

- ❖ 1-All living things need energy to live and work.
- ❖ 2-Since we depend greatly on energy in our daily life, energy has become a global issue.

❖ 3- Energy can be classified into two types:

- ❖ A) Renewable energy
- ❖ B) Nonrenewable energy
- ❖ 4-Nonrenewable comes from the fossilized remains of animals and plants.
- ❖ 5-Non Renewable energy takes a very long time to form so it isn't sustainable.
- ❖ 6- Non-renewable energy will run out one day because it is used once and we can't produce more to replace what we use.
- ❖ 7-Coal, oil, and natural gas are examples of nonrenewable energy.
- ❖ 8-The main disadvantages lie in its harmful impacts /effects on the environment.
- ❖ 9-When it is burnt, it releases dangerous amounts of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere which causes global warming.
- ❖ 10-Renewable energy sources come from natural elements.
- ❖ 11- Solar energy comes from the sun and wind energy from the wind.
- ❖ 12-Hydroelectric power comes from water and Geothermal energy from the heat inside the earth.
- ❖ 13-This kind of energy is sustainable and lasts forever, it doesn't pollute the atmosphere as it is clean.
- ❖ 14- In the future the world will depend on renewable sources of energy as the sources of nonrenewable energy are limited and will run out one day.

❖ Tips to save energy :

- ❖ 1-Turn off the lights when leaving a room.

Grammar Phrasal verbs

Phrasal verbs are very common in English, especially in more informal contexts. They are made up of a verb and a particle or, sometimes, two particles. The particle often changes the meaning of the verb.

I called Jen to see how she was. (Call = to telephone)

They've called off the meeting. (Call off = to cancel)

In terms of word order, there are two main types of phrasal verbs: separable and inseparable.

❖ Separable

With separable phrasal verbs, the verb and particle can be apart or together.

They've called the meeting off.

OR

They've called off the meeting.

However, separable phrasal verbs must be separated when you use a personal pronoun.

The meeting? They've called it off.

Here are some common separable phrasal verbs:

I didn't want to bring the situation up at the meeting.

(bring up = start talking about a particular subject)

Please can you fill this form in?

(fill in = write information in a form or document)

I'll pick you up from the station at 8 p.m.

(pick up = collect someone in a car or other vehicle to take them somewhere)

She turned the job down because she didn't want to move to Glasgow.

(turn down = to not accept an offer)

♣ Non-separable

Some phrasal verbs cannot be separated.

Who looks after the baby when you're at work?

Even when there is a personal pronoun, the verb and particle remain together.

Who looks after her when you're at work?

Here are some common non-separable phrasal verbs:

I came across your email when I was clearing my inbox.

(come across = to find something by chance)

The caterpillar turned into a beautiful butterfly.

(turn into = become)

It was quite a major operation. It took months to get over it and feel normal again.

(get over = recover from something)

We are aware of the problem and we are looking into it. (look into = investigate)

Some multi-word verbs are inseparable simply because they don't take an object.

I get up at 7 a.m.

❖ With two particles

Phrasal verbs with two particles are also inseparable. Even if you use a personal pronoun, you put it after the particles.

Who came up with that idea?

(come up with = think of an idea or plan)

Let's get rid of these old magazines to make more space.

(get rid of = remove or become free of something that you don't want)

I didn't really get on with my stepbrother when I was a teenager.

(get on with = like and be friendly towards someone)

Can you hear that noise all the time? I don't know how you put up with it.

(put up with = tolerate something difficult or annoying)

The concert's on Friday. I'm really looking forward to it.

(look forward to = be happy and excited about something that is going to happen)

Paragraph writing

Energy

Nothing can live without energy. People, animals, and plants need energy to live and machines need energy to work. Today, most of the energy we use still comes from fossil fuels like coal, oil, and gas, which have been formed underground over millions of years. We call these non-renewable forms of energy because they can only be used once. Because of this, we need to reduce our use of non-renewable fuel and use more renewable forms of energy like that from the sun, wind, or geothermal energy.

For centuries, the wind has been used to sail ships and to pump water. Now it is used to produce electricity. Groups of wind turbines along the Red Sea in Egypt generate large amounts of electricity. Water is also a renewable form of energy. Huge quantities of water go through the High Dam at Aswan from Lake Nasser. This hydroelectric power supplies Egypt with a lot of its electricity. As well as being inexpensive to produce, this clean energy does not pollute the environment.

Other countries depend on nuclear power- power produced when atoms split. However, nuclear power produces dangerous waste which must be stored for thousands of years before it is safe. Accidents at nuclear power stations are extremely dangerous to people's health and to the environment.

Energy from the sun is probably the best form of renewable energy. Scientists believe that the sun's energy will last for another five billion years. This energy can now be captured and stored.

It's important for us to save energy in our homes and workplaces in order to stop using up non-renewable sources of energy.

scream□	يصرخ	break□	ينكسر

Examples:

• Heat and light come from the sun.

• A strange thing happened yesterday.

• لاحظ أن بعض الأفعال تكون أحيانا لازمة (بدون مفعول) وأحيانا متعدية (مع مفعول):

• The population has increased by 15%. (الفعل هنا لازم)

لذا من الخطأ أن نقول:

• ~~The population has been increased by 15%. X X~~

• Sunbathing increases the risk of getting skin cancer.

(الفعل هنا

متعدي)

The risk of getting skin cancer is increased by sunbathing. ✓✓

وكما ذكرنا من قبل نحاول في الترجمة تجنب المبني للمجهول – ولذا يفضل ترجمة الجملة السابقة كما يلي:

يُزيد التشمس من خطر الإصابة بسرطان الجلد.

ومن أمثلة الأفعال التي تكون أحيانا لازمة وأحيانا متعدية ما يلي

improve□	يُحسن	improve	يتحسن
break	يكسر	break□	ينكسر

- The robbers could have been seen.

♦ تستخدم by عند ذكر الفاعل الذي قام بالحدث:

- I think all the children in the area will use the new park.
- I think the new park will be used by all the children in the area.

♦ لا بد من استخدام الفاعل + by مع أفعال معينة مثل:

build / invent / discover / design / write / damage / compose / destroy

• Marconi invented the radio.

The radio was invented by Marconi.

♦ عادة لا يستخدم الفعل let في المبني للمجهول. ونستخدم بدلا منه الفعل allow:

- She let me use her computer. I was allowed to use her computer.

♦ ولكن لاحظ ما يلي عندما يكون المفعول هو نفسه الفاعل مع let:

• He let others cheat him.

He let himself be cheated by others.

♦ الجملة المنفية تظل منفية في المبني للمجهول:

Don't / doesn't Didn't

am not / isn't / aren't + PP.
wasn't / weren't + PP.

They don't sell butter here.

Butter is not sold here.

• They didn't send the letters.

The letters weren't sent.

♦ وتكون الجملة منفية أيضا إذا بدأت بكلمات مثل Neither / No one / Nobody

• Neither of them attended the meeting.

The meeting wasn't attended by either of them.

♦ لاحظ ما يلي عندما يكون الفاعل هو نفسه المفعول مع أفعال معينة:

(في حالة المعلوم) مفعول + V+ing + someone + + Like/love/hate/remember

(في حالة المجهول) + by + PP. + being + remember / love / hate / Like

• I love people telling me stories.

I love being told stories by people.

- I got myself locked out of my car.
- He got himself injured while trying to fix the window.
- He got himself killed while he was trying to rob the bank.

Paragraph On Cleanliness

Cleanliness is a vital virtue of life, and it, along with personal hygiene, is part and parcel of the lives of the students. It is advantageous in many ways, and the prime one is that it helps to keep an individual healthy.

We need to maintain proper hygiene and start cleaning our homes first. After we are done with this, we need to reach out to the streets and important places like our schools. Moreover, we should also tell other people to do the same as it is equally essential for them to stay clean.

Staying clean and healthy will not only keep you safe from any diseases but also will help you keep your mind fresh. With the habit of cleanliness, one's level of concentration increases, which will help him stand out from the rest, and later, this habit of cleanliness will take him ahead in life and help him become a successful and happy man.

Grammar

countable and uncountable nouns

There are many phrases used to express quantities and amounts in English

While "much" and "many" are among the most common, the following expressions are often used in place of "much" and "many," especially in positive sentences:

A lot of- Lots of- Plenty of- A great deal of- A large number of These expressions can be combined with "of" in the sense of "most," "many," or "much."

A lot of people enjoy listening to jazz.

A great deal of time is spent understanding these issues.

But note that "much," "most," and "many" do not take "of."

-Most people enjoy listening to some type of music. Not: Most of the people.*

-Much time is spent understanding math. Not: Much of time is spent.*

Much

"Much" is used with uncountable nouns:

There is much interest in learning English around the world.

How much money do you have?

There isn't much butter left in the refrigerator.

"Much" is used in negative sentences and questions, too:

-How much money do you have?*

- There isn't much rice left.*

Note that "much" is rarely used in the positive form. English speakers generally use "a lot of" or "lots of" with uncountable nouns.

We have a lot of time. Not: We have much time.

There is a lot of wine in the bottle. Not: There is much wine in the bottle.

Many

"Many" is used with countable nouns:

How many people came to the party?

There aren't many apples on the table.

Note that "many" is used in the positive form, unlike "much:"

-Andrew has a lot of friends / Andrew has many friends.*

-A lot of my friends live in New York / Many of my friends live in New York.*

A Lot of / Lots of / Plenty Of

"A lot of" and "lots of" can be used with both countable and uncountable nouns. "A lot of" and "lots of" are used in positive sentences:

There is a lot of water in that jar.

He's got lots of friends in London.

Note that generally speaking, "lots of" sounds less formal than "a lot of."

A Little / A Few

"A little" and "a few" indicate a quantity or number.

Use "a little" with uncountable nouns:

-There is a little wine in that bottle.*

-There is a little sugar in my coffee.*

Use "a few" with countable nouns.

-He has a few friends in New York.*

-We bought a few sandwiches on our way to the park.*

Little / Few

"Little" and "few" indicate a limited quantity.

Use "little" with uncountable nouns:

-I have little money to spend.*

-She found little time for work.*

Use "few" with countable nouns:

-He has few students in his class.*

-Jack finds few reasons to stay.*

Some

Use "some" in positive sentences when there is neither a lot nor a little.

"Some" can be used with both countable and uncountable nouns.

-We have some friends who work in Los Angeles.*

-I've saved some money to spend on vacation this summer.*

Any (Questions)

Use "any" in questions to ask if someone has something.

"Any" can be used with both countable and uncountable nouns:

- Do you have any friends in San Francisco?*

- Is there any pasta left?*

Note that when offering or requesting something use "some" instead of "any" for polite questions.

Would you like some shrimp? (offer)

Would you lend me some money? (request)

Any (Negative Sentences)

Use "any" with countable and uncountable nouns in negative sentences to state that something doesn't exist.

We won't have any time for shopping today.

They didn't have any problems finding our house.

Enough

Use "enough" with countable and uncountable nouns to state that you are satisfied with the amount of something.

-She has enough time to visit her friends in Dallas.*

-I think we have enough hamburgers for tomorrow's grill.*

Not Enough

Use "not enough" when you are not satisfied with the amount of something.

-I'm afraid there's not enough time to continue this conversation.*

-There are not enough people working at the moment.*

Each / Every

Use "each" or "every" when referring to the individuals in a group.

-I think every person in this room would agree with me.*

-I'm sure each step of this process is important.*

Large / Big / Vast / Huge Amount of

Use these adjectives with "amount of" with uncountable and countable nouns to express large quantities. This form is often used to exaggerate just how much there is.

-There is a huge amount of work to be done today.*

-Tom has a vast amount of knowledge about the subject.*

Tiny / Small / Minuscule Amount of Use these similar adjectives with "amount of" to express very small quantities. This form is often used in exaggeration to express how little there is of something.

-Peter has a small amount of patience, so don't joke around with him.*

-There is a minuscule amount of time left to register. Hurry up!*

Paragraph Writing

A balanced diet

A balanced diet includes food from every group to help sustain a healthy mind, body, and spirit. Carbohydrates, vitamins, fats, minerals, and proteins are the five main food groups that must be incorporated into every diet.

Lack of carbohydrates could lead to exhaustion and fatigue. The deficiency of proteins could result in hampered growth and underdeveloped muscles.

A deficiency of vitamins and minerals could lead to being susceptible to infections, diseases, and other comorbidities. Lack of fibre and water in a person's diet could lead to poor digestion and dehydration, causing problems with bowel movements.

All the key components must be consumed in the right amount to constitute a balanced diet. A balanced diet helps maintain proper body weight, provides nourishment, and helps improve the quality of life. With a balanced diet, one develops healthy eating habits which could increase the longevity of life. It is necessary to follow a balanced diet right from a young age to avoid illness in the long term.

The Unit in Points

- ❖ A friend is one that knows you, understands where you have been, accepts what you have become, and still, gently allows you to grow.”
- ❖ “ Friends are like flowers in the garden of life”,

❖ How would you build a strong and lasting friendship?

❖ Here are some tips to encourage a stronger friendship

- Choose friends wisely: “He who walks with the wise grows wisely, but a companion of fool suffers harm”
- Be kind: Look at those things that you can do to make their life easier rather than making them feel heavier.
- Be genuine: “ Being honest may not get you a lot of friends but it will always get you the right ones.”
- Find the time: Show your friends that you want to be around with them. You may send text messages or emails. Chat, or call to make them feel that they are important in your life.
- Show appreciation: Make sure to express how you feel and take actions to show that you care for them. Complimenting them on the good qualities or things they do, is also a great way to show you appreciation.
- Express your gratitude: Let your friends know how much you value your friendship.
- Be a good listener: Pay attention and listen closely to what the other person is saying. Making eye contact and body language will also help you show that you are listening.
- Admit and apologize: Learn to admit and apologize when you do something wrong instead of allowing your pride to eat you . Swallow your pride, and accept your mistakes because that is a part of growing up.
- Realize that nobody's perfect: Everyone makes mistakes in life. Accepting this fact is the key to a stronger and long-lasting friendship.
- Be trustworthy: Nothing kills a budding friendship faster than spilled secrets.
- Share the bad time: During the worst time, you will get to see the true colours of the people around you.
- Support a friend: Friends are like a backbone, they are always there when you need support. Cheer them up when they accomplish something.
- Respect each other's opinion: Learn to be open-minded and don't expect them to agree with everything you say but rather, expect them to have their own view of things.

- Never talk behind your friend's back: Gossip is toxic and ruins the even best friendship.
- Try new things and have fun together: Why not go out and do some new adventures together? It is a great way to create some happy memories and lighten the burden load you feel.
- A friend is someone you trust and share a deep level of understanding and communication. There are some people who struggle to create long-lasting friendships.

Paragraph writing A Story I enjoyed most

One day, a crocodile came out of the river. He swam up to the tree and told the monkey that he had travelled a long distance and was in search of food as he was very hungry. The kind monkey offered him a few apples. The crocodile expressed gratitude and requested that he return to see the monkey. He befriends a monkey that lives in a tree along the river's edge. Consequently, the monkey shares the tree's fruits with his friend, the crocodile. Further, the crocodile takes a share of fruit for his wife. However, he has a greedy wife who is not after the sweetness of the fruit but that of the monkey's heart.

It had a moral, which my grandmother taught me at the end of the story, which was to choose your friends wisely. Although I remembered the story, I could not grasp the moral at that age. I, rather, found the story amusing and interesting, particularly the fact that the crocodile was able to converse with the monkey.
